

Resources noted on Source4Networks Focal Point webinar, 12th November 2018: Leading in an ever-changing environment by Helen Bevan

Leading agile transformation: The new capabilities leaders need to build 21st-century organizations

<https://www.source4networks.org.uk/resources/intelligence/252-leading-agile-transformation-the-new-capabilities-leaders-need-to-build-21st-century-organizations>

The McKinsey report highlights that to build and lead an agile organization, it's crucial senior leaders develop new capabilities to transform themselves and their networks.

The Dawn of System Leadership

<https://www.source4networks.org.uk/resources/intelligence/224-the-dawn-of-system-leadership>

Peter Senge, Hal Hamilton, and John Kania's research highlights the key skillset required as system leaders to bring about change and would be useful reflection for network leaders.

Power and organisations

Interesting paper in Journal of Business Anthropology by Gillian Tett - 'Anthropology and Power to the People' - noting that anthropologists spend a lot of time looking at power structures, both formal and informal. It's a truism that the 'elite' stay in power not only by controlling the means of production in an overt manner but by shaping the way a society thinks.

JBA 3(1) 132-135 Spring 2014

You can do a self-assessment on your own leadership @Leadership Academy

<https://www.leadershipacademy.nhs.uk/resources/> including the Healthcare Leadership Model and self-assessment tool.

<http://horizonsnhs.com/school>

<https://www.symplur.com/healthcare-hashtags/>

<http://www.euro.who.int/en/health-topics/Health-systems/public-health-services/coalition-of-partners>

<https://fabnhsstuff.net/>